COVER LETTERS
& Other Job Search Correspondence
What is a cover letter?

The cover or application letter is an important tool in the job search process. The cover letter, as the name implies, covers the resume and should be included with any resume mailed to an employer. The purpose of the cover letter and resume combination is to gain the interest of an employer and be invited to an interview. To write an effective cover letter you need to take time to research and write an original letter. The letter should be tailored to each employer and reflect your knowledge of the employer’s needs. Researching the organization and position before you write will make this task much easier.

Are There Different Types of Cover Letters?

Yes. In general, cover letters come in one of two forms: application letters and prospecting letters.

Basic Guidelines

- Address your letter to a specific person by name and title. If you do not have this information, call the organization and ask for the name and correct spelling of the appropriate person. If a name is not available, use a gender-neutral title such as Employment Representative or Director of Human Resources.

- Each letter should be an original. Duplicated, generic letters are not appropriate.

- A good cover letter will communicate your potential contribution rather than your current needs. Design your letters to be work centered and employer centered, not self-centered.

- Use quality bond paper 8 1/2" x 11", either white or a conservative color to match your resume.

- Standard business letter format should be used. (See page 4.) The letter should be centered on the page with equal margins on all sides. (Never hand-write a cover letter.)

- Keep the letter to one page, eliminating all extraneous words. Your letter should be an introduction to your resume, not a review of it.

- Your letter should be free of typing or grammatical errors. Proofread.

- It is a good practice to keep a copy of all correspondence for future reference.
Application letters are written in response to a specific job opening or vacancy notice. This letter is used to formally apply for the position and show the employer how your qualifications match what the position requires. Use the position description and your research about the organization to compose your letter.

Prospecting letters are written to inquire about possible job openings. This letter is often used for long distance searches or when you have targeted an organization that is not currently advertising an opening. The prospecting letter is similar to the application letter, but the focus is on matching your qualifications to the broader occupational area and the organization rather than to a specific position.

How Are Cover Letters Structured?

There is not one single way to write a cover letter. You should use the cover letter to try to communicate something interesting, unique, or distinctive about you.

Consider the following framework as you begin to write your cover letter:

1. Introduction:

   Immediately come to the point. Reveal your purpose in writing. Identify the position for which you are applying and how you found out about the opening. Often people include a statement about why they are interested in the organization.

2. Body or middle paragraph(s):

   Tell them what “sets you apart.” Outline your strongest qualifications that match the position.

Edward Kamm
Director of Marketing
Smith & Co.
923 Main Street
Moorhead, MN 55111

Dear Mr. Kamm:

Your advertisement in the April 19 Des Moines Register for a pharmaceutical salesperson caught my attention. A position such as this, drawing on both a knowledge in the sciences and good communication skills, is what I seek in a career.

At Luther, my studies required a broad range of biology courses as well as classes in mathematics, chemistry and physics. Such study gives me the groundwork I need to understand and promote pharmaceuticals. My courses in English, philosophy, economics, and other liberal arts studies provide me with ways of thinking, learning and communicating that can help me become an effective salesperson and leader in your organization. My semester of study in Spain opened my world view. It showed that I could adapt to a new environment and communicate effectively in Spanish. I developed excellent persuasion and promotion skills as a tour guide for the Admissions Office.

My involvement with the basketball team and intramural sports gave me the opportunity to work on a team and perform in a competitive environment. My demonstrated ability to act under pressure, set personal goals, and learn how to win and lose will help me succeed as a salesperson. In addition, work on our family farm requires initiative and self-motivation, skills also needed in the demanding field of pharmaceutical sales.

I welcome an opportunity to speak with you about the position and my qualifications. My resume is enclosed for your information. I will contact you the week of May 15 to further discuss my candidacy for a pharmaceutical sales representative position with Smith and Co. Thank you for your time and consideration.

Sincerely,

Jack Frost

requirements. Mention aspects of your work experiences, extracurricular activities, course work or personal achievements that are relevant to the position. Share examples of how your experiences have helped to develop skills needed for the position. Demonstrate why your skills and your background make you a perfect match for the position you seek. Convince the employer that you have the qualities and motivation to perform well in the position. Sell yourself!

3. Closing:

Show appreciation to the reader for their time and consideration. Suggest an action plan. Express your interest in obtaining a personal interview and indicate that you will be calling to check on the status of your application. Some take a less direct approach by including their telephone number and the hours they can be reached with a statement like I look forward to hearing from you soon.

- Identify the position for which you are applying, how you learned of the organization, and why you are applying.
- Indicate your potential contributions to the organization.
- Describe your primary qualifications.
- Refer the reader to your enclosed resume.
- Request the next step in the process (interview, response to letter).
- Sign your letter.
- IMPORTANT: Resist the temptation to copy sample cover letters word for word. Your cover letter must be yours! It must express your writing style and personality. Make sure your cover letter is perfect. Proofread your letter and run it through spell check! Check for correct grammar and punctuation.
How Do I Format My Cover Letter?

Formatting your cover letter will be easy if you keep in mind standard business formatting. We have included a sample with specific structure and spacing instructions below.

A. Return Address: A return address is used in a personal business letter when an individual writes on blank stationery.

B. Date Line: The date (month, day, and year) on which the letter is typed. Leave three blank lines between the date and inside address.

C. Inside Address: The name and address of the person to whom you are writing. Leave one blank line between the inside address and salutation.

D. Salutation: An opening greeting like Dear Ms. Morales. Leave one blank line between the salutation and message.

E. Message: The text of the letter. All paragraphs are typed single-spaced with no indentions. Leave one blank line between paragraphs and between the final paragraph and complimentary closing.

F. Complimentary Closing: A parting phrase such as Sincerely or Sincerely yours. Leave three blank lines between the closing and writer's identification.

G. Writer’s Identification: Your name. Leave one blank line between writer's identification and enclosure notation.

H. Enclosure Notation: A reminder that the letter is accompanied by an enclosure.

D Dear Ms. Smith:

Immediately come to the point. Reveal your purpose and interest (why you are writing). Identify the position (title of position) you are applying for and your source of information (how you found out about the opening). Outline your goals or learning objectives and describe your interest in the corporation.

Tell them "what sets you apart". Outline your strongest qualifications that match the position requirements. As much as possible, provide evidence of your related experiences and accomplishments. Convince the employer that you have the qualities and motivation to perform well in the position. Sell yourself! (This may take one to two paragraphs).

Show appreciation to the reader for their time and consideration. Indicate your phone number and the hours when you can be reached.

How Should I Send My Cover Letter?

There are four appropriate ways to deliver the cover letter and resume: mail, fax, e-mail, and hand-delivered.

Most often, cover letters and resumes are mailed. If you believe that your cover letter and resume may be scanned, it is suggested that you use a 9” x 12” or larger envelope. This will decrease the chance of scanning errors from folds in the paper.

Mr. William Smith
Superintendent
Spring Creek Schools
128 Main St.
Spring Creek, WI 55155

Dear Mr. Smith:
I am writing to formally apply for the first grade teaching position in the Spring Creek School District. I learned of the position through the Luther College Career Center.

I am particularly interested in teaching first grade because it is an exciting time for new learners. My student teaching experience in the lower elementary grades has given me a good base of experience and I feel confident in my ability to teach the first grade. Teaching at John Mathis Elementary School in Buffalo, Iowa, was a great learning experience. Under the guidance of my cooperating teacher, I developed lesson plans and created a unit for emerging writers.

In addition to student teaching, I bring a variety of related work experiences to the position. I have worked as a camp counselor and a daycare provider throughout my college years. I also served as a volunteer with the local Girl Scouts and assisted with a park and recreation soccer program. Each experience with children confirmed my desire to be a teacher. I am dedicated to teaching children and believe I would be a productive member of the elementary faculty in your school.

I have enclosed my resume for your review and would welcome the opportunity to speak with you in person about my qualifications for the first grade position. Please feel free to contact me at (563) 555-6094 if you have any questions regarding my qualifications. I look forward to hearing from you soon.

Sincerely,
Cameron Stiller

If sending your cover letter and resume by e-mail, consider the following tips:

♦ Combine cover letter and resume in the body of the e-mail message unless the organization indicates a different preference. In all cases follow the organization’s directions.

♦ Cover letters sent via e-mail are typically shorter in length than traditional paper versions and include keywords for possible database searches.

Ms. Debra Jones, Director
Tate Helping Services
299 Union St.
Des Moines, IA 55789

Dear Ms. Jones:
Please consider my application for the caseworker position with Tate Helping Services advertised in the Des Moines Register on Monday, February 28. I am very interested in the work your agency is doing with at-risk youth of Des Moines.

I will complete my bachelor of arts in social work in May of this year. I have had experience with children through my positions as a youth counselor at Camp Turning Point and my internship with Sandy Acres Treatment Center. As a youth counselor, I conducted group counseling sessions with middle school aged children. I also provided one-on-one assistance to youth who were working to make changes in their lifestyles. During my internship at Sandy Acres Treatment Center I worked primarily with teens who were placed into treatment after serious incidents with drug or alcohol abuse. These positions have given me excellent hands-on-experience and insight into the realities of working within the system to assist troubled youth.

My interest in youth is far-reaching. Throughout my high school years I volunteered at the Cedar Rapids Shelter and served as a tutor for children living there. I also volunteered at the local schools as part of the America Reads Program while attending college. In addition, I am very involved in the Social Work Club and have organized several fundraising events for local United Way agencies. If hired as a caseworker for Tate Helping Services, you can be assured that I will be a hardworking and enthusiastic member of your team.

I have enclosed my resume for your review and would be happy to answer any questions you may have regarding my qualifications for the caseworker position. Please feel free to contact me at the following number (563) 555-9876. If you are unable to reach me, please leave a message on my answering machine and I will return your call as soon as possible. I look forward to hearing from you.

Sincerely,
Denise Fox

What Other Types of Correspondence are Used in the Job Search?

Job search correspondence varies, but the most common letters beyond the application and prospecting cover letters are the thank-you letter, the letter of acceptance, the letter of decline, and the follow-up to a rejection letter. We have included samples for your convenience and encourage you to adapt and change them to reflect your own writing style.

Thank-You Letter

A thank-you letter sent after an interview can distinguish you from the crowd since so few people send them. It is used to establish goodwill, to express appreciation, and to strengthen your candidacy. If someone is undecided about hiring you after the interview, a thank-you letter might weigh as a positive factor in the decision.

Dear Mr. Franklin:

Thank you for taking time to share details with me about the assistant buyer’s position at Top Notch Clothes in yesterday’s interview.

After talking with your staff and further investigating your well-established organization, I am eager to reaffirm my interest in the position. My familiarity with your product line and my considerable retail experience would make me a strong member of the Top Notch Clothes sales team.

I hope to hear from you soon regarding your final decision.

Sincerely,

Chris Smith

Letter of Acceptance

This letter is perhaps the most exciting letter of all to write. To begin with, you should refer to the letter or telephone call you received from your new employer that outlined the position offered and terms of your employment. Your letter of acceptance should confirm your date for reporting to work, as well as salary and benefits information. Express your appreciation and excitement at joining the organization.

Dear Ms. Mitchell:

It is with pleasure that I accept the position of Medical Social Worker with Park Medical Center at an annual salary of $20,000 with benefits. As we discussed last Friday, I will be reporting for work on Monday, July 23, in the Social Services Department.

As stated in your offer, I understand that after my initial orientation I will be assigned temporary office space. I also understand that the Center is currently undergoing renovations and that I can expect to have a more permanent office by the first of the year.

I greatly appreciate your consideration and efforts on my behalf. Thank you again for your assistance during the interview process. I look forward to working with you and your staff and continue to be excited about my new responsibilities with Park Medical Center.

Letter Declining an Offer

This type of letter is written when you definitely decide to decline an offer from an employer. It is a matter of common courtesy, as well as good business practice, to notify an employer once you have made a decision to reject an offer of employment. Express your appreciation for the interest and confidence the employer showed in making you an offer.

Dear Ms. Cole:

Thank you for your recent offer of employment as Graphics Assistant with your firm. Although it was a difficult decision, I have decided to decline your offer at this time.

As you know, my primary interest has been printmaking. The position I accepted will allow me to further develop my skills, specifically in this area.

I greatly appreciate your consideration, time and effort throughout the selection process.

Follow-Up to a Rejection

This is probably the most difficult of all job hunt correspondence to write. In your letter, acknowledge the decision of the employer. Express your thanks for their consideration and be sure to keep the door open to future prospects. While organizations have varying practices in sharing feedback with candidates, it is always good to request it. At the very least, this important information will help you prepare for future interviews.

Dear Mr. Sand:

I recently received notification of your decision to hire another candidate for the position of Assistant Engineer. I want to thank you for considering me through the final interviewing process. At your convenience, I would appreciate receiving any feedback you would be willing to give regarding my credentials, experience, or the interview.

I learned a great deal about Engineering Concepts through the interview process. I have high regard for your organization and would welcome any future employment opportunities.

I hope we have the opportunity to meet again. Thank you for your efforts on my behalf.

Sincerely,
