Note from the Editor
Emma Deignan ’18
One of the best parts of my college experience has been this work-study position. Working in an office setting with my supervisor, Catherine Dyer, and countless other staff members has given me skills and confidence I would not have found elsewhere. Not only that, but I got to dedicate over three years to long-term jobs and projects, like this one, that gave me a creative and intellectual outlet outside of academics. After this month’s edition of the Parent Newsletter, Hanna Dodd ’21 will take over as editor! While saying goodbye to my peers and mentors in the Marketing and Publications Office is sad, I’m excited for what’s next and for another student to have a great opportunity like I had. If you have questions, comments, or concerns about this month’s Parent Newsletter, I encourage you to contact us at parentnewsletter@luther.edu.

Message from Corey Landstrom
Vice President and Dean for Student Life

We are in the last full month of the academic year, and as students are looking forward to the end, it can feel as though there may be no end in sight. For anyone who lives in the region, the presence of snow on April 16 and again on Wednesday was a not-too-friendly reminder that nature operates on its own, unpredictable calendar. It may be beautiful, but I think most on campus would agree, we’re ready for spring.
"Those Who Can Do Teach"

"Those Who Can Do Teach," a series of mixed-media works by Luther College recent alumni art educators, will be on display in the Preus Library April 12 through May 27. The exhibit was created from the phrase "Those who can't do, teach" to show that art educators can not only teach but also maintain an active studio practice. The artists involved include Micayla Irmiter, class of 2014; Jenna Darsee, Jenny Bonnell and Katie Mathis, class of 2015; Lars Johnson and Robin Schone Hengesteg, class of 2016; and Maxwell Green, class of 2017. All Thing$ Financial

- The Financial Aid Office sent missing-document emails out to students April 20 outlining the documents they need to remit in order to process a financial aid award for 2018-19.
- Continuing students who have submitted all the required documentation should receive an award letter email early May. This email will direct students to my.luther.edu to view their financial aid awards for the 2018-19 academic year. There is a Cost Estimate Worksheet on the forms page of finaid.luther.edu that... can be used to determine your remaining balance due.

- Students interested in receiving financial aid for summer courses they will take at Luther should have completed a Summer Financial Aid Application. This is available on finaid.luther.edu. The priority date for filing the application is May 15.
- If your student is planning to study away at some point during the upcoming academic year, we have a Study Away Scholarship Application available on our website for completion. These are due on May 24.
- Continuing students must have their work-study position secured for the upcoming academic year by May 15.
- Graduating seniors need to complete their exit counseling for any federal student loans they received while attending Luther. Information regarding this will be sent to seniors via email.
